

STATE DEPT' WARNS THE RUSSIAN BEAR TO BEWARE

Tart Statement Issued This Morning Shows Uncle Sam Does Not Like Russia's Present Diplomatic Falsifications.

DIPLOMATIC WASHINGTON DISTURBED

Scent Direct Defiance To Present Plans of Russia And Possibility Of a Break From Their Alliance.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Washington, July 2.—All Washington is agog with the tart statement issued by the state department this morning regarding the diplomatic relations with Russia bearing upon the Kishineff massacre in particular. All diplomatic circles are disturbed over the turn affairs have taken and believe it is a note of warning to Russia.

American Dislike
As interpreted in foreign circles that it is the first expression of American sentiment against the Russian methods which has increased steadily since the Pekin incident three summers ago. The Kishineff petition is merely regarded as an incident in the affair.

The Main Cause
The main cause appears to be the repeated contradictions made by Russia in its statements regarding the Manchurian problem. It is asserted that Russia not only knowingly falsified statements by word of mouth but also by official documents some of which the Russian minister was forced to retract.

End Came
Apparently the long suffering state department ended yesterday when Russia attempted to administer through semi-official sources an unfriendly warning to the United States to abstain from meddling in the Kishineff trouble of her internal affairs.

Washington, July 2.—A statement has been made public from a semi-official Russian source that the petition of the American Jews to the czar will not be received.

An official statement has been made by Acting Secretary of State Loomis that the petition will be forwarded by the American government and that government cannot consider the refusal of the Russian government, as the statement is not directed to the state department.

The Russian statement is as follows:

Will Not Receive Petitions.
"The Russian government must categorically refuse to receive from any power any petition, representations, or communication relative to its internal policy."

There is a tone of indignation in the concluding portion of the statement which says:

"The Russian government most positively refuses to receive from any power any petition, representations, or communication relative to its internal policy."

GERMANY'S CLAIMS AGAINST CUBA

First Public Reference to the Subject is Made by Diplo-

Havana, July 2.—The first public reference on the subject of the German claims against Cuba which were mentioned to the Cuban consul general at Hamburg by the German foreign secretary, Baron von Richtofen, and of the nature of which nothing is known here, is made in the Discussion, a government organ, which in an editorial says:

"If it is true that Germany intends to present claims against Cuba the senate should ask itself whether it would not be advisable that the final decision on the German communication should find us with our relations with the United States finally agreed to, for although this may be a simple question which in our opinion has an emphatic reply in the treaty of Paris, it may be a new pretext taken by Germany to find the ticklish spots of the Monroe doctrine."

The article advises the immediate approval and promulgation of the treaties with the United States which are founded on the Platt amendment.

DEATH LIST IS NOW LESS THAN WAS FIRST EXPECTED

Hanna Mine Disaster Now Reduces the Total Number of Dead to One Hundred and Sixty-seven.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Hanna, July 2.—The number of dead in the Hanna mine has now been reduced to 167. Only three bodies have been recovered. The horror of fire and incineration for miners below the seventh level has filled the town with deep gloom. It was fondly hoped all the bodies would be recovered.

CASTRO CAUSES MUCH ANXIETY

Expulsion of Frenchmen from Venezuela Is Considered Very Significant.

Paris, July 2.—It has been learned that M. Valerigo, a leading figure in the foreign colony at Caracas, Venezuela, has been expelled from the country by President Castro because he brought a claim of $6,000 against the government for two months' imprisonment without any reason being given. The incident has created much excitement, as it is considered that it implies a policy of intimidation toward foreign claimants, and to avoid the consequences of the agreement signed at Washington.

WAR WARNING IS PUBLICLY GIVEN

Bulgarian Government Addresses a Note to Powers, Stating Emergencies Are Being Prepared For.

Vienna, July 2.—The Bulgarian government has addressed a note to the powers pointing out that Turkey, instead of co-operating for the pacification of Macedonia and other recalcitrant provinces, has been making matters worse by concentrating troops on the Bulgarian frontier, and that in view of the fact that the sultan has persisted in his policy, despite the protests of Bulgaria, the interior government feels that it is the duty of the principality to prepare for an emergency.

FREE TRADERS IN A UNION MEETING

They Will Inquire Into Chamberlain's Ideas on the Changing of the Present Tariffs.

London, July 2.—At a meeting of fifty free trade unionist ministers of parliament today, those present including Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, formerly chancellor of the exchequer; Lord Hugh Cecil and Austen Chamberlain, the postmaster general, a resolution favoring an inquiry into Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's preferential tariff proposals was adopted. It was also declared that if they resulted in any departure from free trade it would be disastrous to the country.

ANOTHER TRIAL RACE IS HELD THIS AFTERNOON

Reliance Crossed the Line First, Constitution Second and Columbia Next.

(From Thursday's Daily.) Newport, R. I., July 2.—The fourth of the trial races is being sailed this afternoon. The Reliance, as usual, crossed the line first, the Constitution second and the Columbia last. The wind is very good and fast time is expected.

When a short distance out of the harbor the Constitution was struck by a squall and disabled so badly that it had to be towed back to the harbor.

INDIANA HAS A TOUCH OF A CLOUDBURST NEAR PERU

Part of the Town Is Submerged Under Water and Much Damage Is Done.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Peru, Ind., July 2.—A cloudburst struck the northern portion of the city today. North Peru and Elwood were entirely under water the rapid rise reaching six feet in many places. Many buildings were flooded badly.

STATE NOTES

All the book paper mills in Wisconsin will shut down on July 3 and remain closed ten days to reduce surplus stocks and prevent a drop in prices.

The graduating exercises of the Manitowish county teachers' training school took place Tuesday evening, a class of twenty-three receiving diplomas.

The new state forestry commission will hold its first meeting at Madison on July 9, when it will organize and perhaps elect a superintendent of state forests.

Gov. La Follette has left for Aberdeen, S. D., to deliver an address before a Chautauque assembly. Before returning he will visit his brother at Chamberlain, S. D.

While fishing for trout in a little stream running into the St. Louis river near Superior Alex Resburg, a farmer, was taken with a fit, fell in, and was drowned.

Former Sheriff Sommers of Superior lost his case in the claim for four months' salary. Judge Smith decided against him on all points, but the case will go to the supreme court.

The towns of Center and Greenville in Outagamie county have adopted the Appleton plan and will within three days begin the slaughter of all unweaned dogs running at large.

The business men of Soughton held a meeting and determined to raise the bonus of $2,000 demanded by the American Cigar company to build a warehouse in that city.

The Kade Hygienic Soda Fountain company, manufacturing soda fountains for the last three years in Sheboygan, has been absorbed by the Carbonated Apparatus company of Buffalo, N. Y.

The board of education at Fond du Lac has postponed the letting of the contract for supplying the public schools with coal during the coming year, on account of the high prices asked by the dealers.

TOWER IS TO BE CALLED ON

The American Ambassador Must Make Apology to Emperor William for Insinuations.

PERSONAL HONOR

Germany's Ruler Resents the Charge of Visiting Kearsarge for Any Utterior Reason.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Berlin, July 2.—It is officially stated that Emperor William is much offended at the Washington dispatch, which claimed he had ulterior motives for inspecting the Kearsarge, while it lay in Kiel harbor this past week.

Personal Honor
It is stated that the Kaiser asserts his personal honor has been affected and he is much grieved over the whole affair. Personally, all Germany considers it an insult to their Emperor and are indignant.

Must Apologize
It is understood that Ambassador Tower will be called upon for an apology for the insult and that he will be expected to officially make public the statement contradicting the statement published.

TAKES UP THE CANAL TREATY

The Colombian Senate Now Has the Matter Under Its Advice.

Bogota, July 2.—The minister of foreign affairs attended a secret session of the senate yesterday and read to that body the diplomatic correspondence relative to the Panama canal. The following committee on foreign relations has been appointed by the senate: Senors Joaquin F. Velez, Jose Gonzalez Valencia, Antonio Gomez Restrepo, Jose Rivas Groot. The house has appointed a canal committee of nine, consisting of one member from each department. The house has decided by a vote of 36 to 6 that the present session of congress shall be regarded as extraordinary. General Rafael Uribe Uribe has issued a statement in which he pledges his word that he will not promote any more revolutions.

KAISER'S BOAT LOST THE RACE

Emperor William Was Beaten in the Recent Race of Kiel Harbor.

Kiel, July 2.—In the handicap yacht races from Eckernforde to Kiel yesterday the Navanhoe was the first to cross the finishing line, followed by the Orion. The Therese was third and the Commodore fourth. In the schooner class the Hamburg beat the Meteor, sailed by Emperor William, by one and one-half minutes. A strong, gusty northwest wind was blowing.

The official awards were as follows: The Empress Iduna won the cruising schooner race, on time allowance; the Adela was second, on time allowance, and the Hamburg was third. The Meteor which allowed the Iduna forty minutes, was not officially placed in the race.

LOUBET IGNORES A DEPUTATION

He Refuses to Receive the Protesting British Roman Catholics.

London, July 2.—President Loubet has declined to receive a deputation of British Roman Catholics who desired to present to him while he is in London a petition regarding the "persecution of the Roman Catholic religion in France, the expulsion of the religious orders and the confiscation of their property."

MAINE IS NOW "DRY" IN FACT

Authorities for First Time Strictly Enforce Prohibition Laws.

Bangor, Maine, July 2.—Within a few days Maine is likely to be in fact what it is supposed to be—a prohibition state. Never until now has constitutional prohibition prohibited the sale of liquor anywhere in Maine if a saloon-keeper was willing to submit to arrest and fine about twice a year. Even in the city of Portland the late Sheriff Pearson was unable to stop the sale, though he had an immense force of deputies and the courts on his side.

Now, however, the judges of the supreme court have given notice that the possession of a United States internal revenue liquor stamp will subject the possessor to a jail sentence instead of the usual fine, and all over the state hotels and restaurants last night closed their bars, wholesalers went out of business, and within a week every retailer will have quit selling.

GERMANS FAVOR OUR EDUCATION

Will Establish Schools on the Same Plan Throughout Germany.

Berlin, July 2.—The Comenius society, one of the most influential educational associations of Germany, is at present making strong efforts to have the government open a bureau of education similar to the one conducted by the American government at Washington. A prominent member of the society after an extensive trip through the United States recently, said on his return that Germany, though she had always been convinced that she possessed the highest and most perfect school system in the world, could learn much from America.

WILL NOT CURB THE COTTON TRUST

England Declines to Support International Law to Prevent Gambling in Staples.

London, July 2.—Andrew Bonar Law, parliamentary secretary to the office of commerce, in reply to questions put to him in the house of commons this afternoon, said he had seen the newspaper reports regarding the so-called cotton trust. Replying to requests, he declined to confer with President Roosevelt or to suggest a conference of the various governments with a view to the introduction of international legislation for the control of gambling in such products.

PUSHING IRISH LAND MEASURE

House of Commons Is Now Making Rapid Progress on the Bill.

London, July 2.—The house of commons is making rapid progress with the consideration of the Irish land bill, both sides being evidently anxious to push the measure through. Clauses ten to twenty-one were accepted last night, the only amendment of interest being that of T. W. Russell to clause seventeen, which was accepted by Mr. Wyndham. The amendment provides that where three-fourth of the tenants agree to purchase of an estate the remaining tenants shall be deemed to have accepted the offers made to them and the land purchase act shall apply accordingly.

RAINS DAMAGED INDIANA CROPS BADLY TODAY

Wabash Is Badly Sown by a Heavy Rain That Came Down Last Night.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Wabash, Ind., July 2.—Heavy rains which fell last night have done a large amount of damage to farms near the city and immediate vicinity. The whole valley is said to be damaged.

Tells Him He Hopes He Will Bring Peace, Order and Justice to His New Kingdom.

(From Thursday's Daily.) Belgrade, July 2.—King Edward in answer to King Peter's announcement of his accession to the throne sent a diplomatic notice which he hoped Peter would bring peace, order and justice to Serbia.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

One negro has been killed by a mob at Norway, S. C., and four have been beaten into insensibility.

Professor Arthur Johnstone of New York has been awarded a gold medal by the Society of Cincinnati for writing new music for "America."

A joint committee of Congregationalists, Methodists, Protestants and United Brethren at Pittsburgh has agreed on a plan for the union of the three churches.

Rev. Fillingham, rector of Hexton, England, has sailed abroad from New York. He expressed satisfaction with the beginning of the ritualistic war in this country.

Tabliss in session at Detroit have had a hot debate on the question of Sunday services, which is frankly referred back to the commission for further action.

Marshall Field, before sailing for Europe, discussed the business situation, with special reference to the west. He said that the chief danger comes from organized labor and described the situation as precarious.

The Iowa republican convention has adopted the Allison tariff plank, a declaration more conservative than the "Iowa idea." Gov. Cummins and other state officials with one exception were re-nominated.

Three bathing beaches on the lake front at Chicago have been opened. Yesterday, ten thousand people enjoyed a swim.

Announcement has been made that Russia will not receive any communication or petition relating to the Kishineff massacres.

The schooner Meteor, sailed by Emperor William, has been beaten by the Hamburg in the race from Eckernforde to Kiel.

Free trade unionists of the house of commons have decided to make an inquiry into the preferential tariff proposals of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain.

The house of commons has made rapid progress with the Irish land bill, both sides having pushed the

GERMANY LEADS THE AUTO. RACE

Five Hundred Thousand Persons Are Along the Route of International Contest.

THREE ACCIDENTS

Course Is Carefully Guarded the Whole Three Hundred and Seventy-One Miles.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.) Ballyspann, Ireland, July 2.—The great international automobile race started this morning at seven o'clock. The day was ideal for the race and the course of three hundred and seventy-one miles was well lined by the half million spectators present. The race is between four teams of three men, each representing Germany, England, France and America.

The Order of Start
Edge, holder of the cup, English; DeKniff, French; Owen, American; Genatzy, German; Jarrett, English; Gabriel, French; Mooers, American; Decarters, German; Stocks, English; Fremmen, French; Winton, American; Fox Hall Keene, German. All obtained a good start except Mooers and Winton. Mooers lost several seconds through excitement, and Winton lost forty minutes through an accident to his carburetor.

First Accidents
The first fall by the wayside was Stocks, English, who ran into a wire fence and had his wheels smashed. Following this Jarrot, English lost control of his machine and it was completely smashed, and he injured badly. Stocks, the other English rider was also badly injured in a smashup.

Good Precautions
Elaborate precautions have been taken all along the course to keep the sightseers from blocking the road and five thousand police and soldiers are stationed to guard against accidents.

Germany Leads
At one o'clock with the race half over, Genatzy, German, led by a minute. DeKniff, Frenchman, second, the others scattered. Edge, the present holder of the cup, is practically out of the race. All three Americans are in the rear. Keene gave up the race before starting the second round.

Genatzy Wins
Genatzy finished first and defeated his nearest competitor, DeKniff, by ten minutes. Genatzy is a German and the other man French.

NORMAL REGENTS ELECT OFFICERS

They Met at Madison Today, and Formed Their Organization.

(Special To The Gazette.) Madison, Wis., July 2.—F. H. Ford, River Falls, elected president of the state board of normal regents today, to succeed F. A. Ross, Superior, who declined re-election. Senator Z. P. Beach, Whitewater, elected vice-president, Major S. S. Rockwood, Portage, re-elected secretary, receiving six votes, Gerhard Willrich, Milwaukee, three; J. A. Donnelly two. W. H. Comerford, Superior, was appointed to clerkship in secretary of state's office.

RUSSIA PLANS POLICE FORCE

Will Expend Over Five Millions To Keep Peace in the Provinces.

St. Petersburg, July 2.—The czar has sanctioned the formation of a new police force to maintain order and assure security in the rural districts of forty-six provinces of European Russia. The sum of $5,250,000 has been appropriated to cover the cost of this body of men.

NATIONAL RAILWAY CLERKS UNION WANT MORE PAY

Say They Will Demand It in Every Railway Office in the United States.

(From Thursday's Daily.) Chicago, July 2.—The National Railway Clerks union is preparing to make demands for an increase of pay on every railway in the country. They say that if refused they will strike and also say that the freight handlers will go out as well as other union railway employes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS HAS A PICNIC UP THE RIVER

Mrs. Henderson and Her Fifteen Girls Have a Pleasant Time at Idleyle Park.

Mrs. Henderson and her Sunday school class of fifteen girls spent last evening at Idleyle park up the river. It was a merry party that met at the boat docks at five o'clock and a still merrier one that came back down the river at eight after a most enjoyable picnic supper at the park.

Arrangements have been made to resume work at the Remington watch

HAS MEMORABLE SIGNIFICANCE

GREAT HISTORY WRAPPED UP IN THE DAY.

FOURTH IS TOO DANGEROUS

Youngster of Today Seeks for Fire Cracker of Cannon—Like Proportions.

One hundred and twenty-seven years ago today after tomorrow, the Continental Congress assembled at Philadelphia, declared this country free and independent from the rule of Great Britain. There were then thirteen states bordering along the sea coast of the Atlantic. Thirteen little states with less than three million inhabitants who dared to throw down the gage of battle at England and declare that taxation, without representation was tyranny. It was a memorable day in Philadelphia, that Fourth of July 1776. The streets were crowded with men and women. The quiet old Quaker city teemed with excitement. "Will they do it?" "Dare they do it?" It was a crucial moment in the history of the world. Behind the locked doors of the old Independence hall sat the learned men of the then colonies. Men who had weighed and measured all the existing conditions and probable results.

Can you imagine the excitement that broke forth when the little boy ran from the door of the hall and called to his grandfather in the belfry: "Ring, Grandpa, Ring!" Such a ringing. Never had a bell sounded such tidings to the world at large. Never before had a brazen tongue meant so much to so many people. Here, a hundred and twenty-seven years afterwards the echo of that bell had not been stifled. From the shores of the Atlantic to the sweeping coast of the Pacific, yes, far out into the waste of water of that great ocean, that one peal of a bell has meant liberty to thousands. Liberty and a home in the land of the free and the brave.

Decisive Wars
The United States has not had the smoothest of sailing. The ship of state launched at that momentous moment has been tossed on the wave of adversity many times. Four times since then has bloody war stalked through the country, spreading desolation and sorrow. Yet that flag whose birth was really given in that assembly hall of Philadelphia still waves and its stars have lost none of the lustre of the original thirteen that first decked its field of blue. One star for each state admitted has been added to the blue field but the thirteen bars of red and white still remain the same. Thirteen bars that represent the thirteen states who dared to declare their rights, not only for themselves, but for posterity.

The day today does not seem to mean as much as it did a hundred years ago. Then the day was kept with religious solemnity. The declaration was read by the village squire. The salute of thirteen guns was fired at sunrise and enthusiastic youngsters always managed to steal an anvil from a neighboring blacksmith shop and fire it off just to let the citizens know that young America appreciated the day.

The Bloody Fourth
Some ways the boys of today do not seem to have all the fun they used to have out of the Fourth. The ringing of the meetinghouse bell at sharp midnight, the bonfires on the common, the parades, when all the militia for miles around turned out and were paraded by the militia officer of the district, the climbing of the greased pole, the chasing of the greased pig and all the sports of Young America of a century ago have given away to fixed affairs, to races where money is won and lost, to village celebrations where the street fakir and confidence men reap a harvest.

Fire crackers are too cheap these days; too cheap and too dangerous. The small boy of today is not content with hearing a cannon go off. He wants to fire one himself. He wants to have one big cracker that will sound as if all creation had broken loose if he does not have anything else, and on every stand just a cracker is to be had—great big dangerous things, that come from the heathen Chinese country, or made right here in America, that can out-noise any noise made by the boy of a century ago.

Accidents and bad fires are the usual result of the Fourth. The list of the dead and wounded in celebrating their country's natal day on July 4th will be usual probably be large. Every little village and hamlet will contribute its share of victims who are minus a finger, or have lost their hair and eyebrows bending over a cracker that did not go off. Toy pistols will also claim their share of the list of the injured and dead, and then the country will settle down to the one hundred and twenty-eighth year of its liberty.

RECEIVED OFFER TO SELL MONEY

Chicago Parties Write Janesville Man, Making Prices on Green Goods—Didn't Bite.

The old saying that a fresh foot is born every minute is verified day after day. Whether Janesville men are considered easy or not remains to be seen, but it is certainly evident that the eastern sharks who look for easy marks have picked out some names from an old directory and have sent flattering offers for them to become rich at a very small expense to their pocket books—just a simple method of paying a few of Uncle Sam's good dollars for several thousand worthless bills that are but poor imitations of the genuine article when it comes down to inspection.

Green Goods
Green Goods men work in peculiar ways. They send out a blind circular telling all the means and the easy methods of becoming rich without any labor at all. They offer to their proposed victim bills that cannot be detected from the genuine in exchange for good bills fresh from Uncle Sam's mints. The rates usually offered are liberal. $3,000 for $500, $5,000 for $750, $8,000 for $1,000 and twenty thousand for $2,000 and so on. The victims are warned not to write but to telegraph to some address which differs in each letter sent out. It is a simple wording, "send list of prices" and then sign your own name.

The Meeting
Then will come an engagement for a meeting. The proposed victim will be told to go to some city, and to a certain place. Without his knowledge he will be carefully inspected by a capper. If he looks all right, he will be conducted to some sky parlor where the deal is actually made. He will turn over his good money for the worthless paper that would not pass a China man, and will be ushered out a back way as carefully as he was ushered in the front. If he is unusually bright and complains about the bad looks of the goods given he will be given good money, but it is a certainty that he will not arrive at home with it. His grip will be stolen, his pocket picked or some accident will happen.

Same Old Game
It is the same old game that has been played so often that one would think the public would become wise at last, but they never do. The Janesville gentleman who received the last request merely smiled and said that every year, he supposed the same district was canvassed with the same flattering offer of riches galore, which never materialize.

WERE MARRIED BY MUNICIPAL JUDGE

Judge C. L. Fifield Made Couple from Widely Separate States Husband and Wife.

Residents of Iowa and Michigan met on neutral territory here yesterday afternoon, and through the powers vested in Municipal Judge Fifield were enabled to become man and wife. They were Calvin C. Adams of Waterloo, Ia., and Mabel Shurtz of Jackson, Mich.

When they secured a license from County Clerk Starr they did so believing that it would be possible to be married without further delay, but on learning of the five days' wait required under the present Wisconsin law they appealed to Judge Fifield for aid.

The judge was willing to perform the ceremony, and accordingly did so. The newly married couple remained barely long enough after the ceremony to shower their gratitude upon his honor and departed from the city on the first train.

RESIGNS OFFICE AFTER LONG WORK

Mr. Merrill is No Longer Connected with the Children's Home Society.

The Rev. Charles D. Merrill, district superintendent of the children's home society of Wisconsin, in accordance with his notice to the directors a year ago, has resigned his office, and ended his connection with the society Wednesday. For more than seven years Mr. Merrill has championed the cause of destitute children in this state with faithfulness and efficiency, has settled several hundreds of homeless youngsters in families, and has collected many thousands of dollars for their aid. He has spent twenty-eight years in the study of the practical questions concerning the care of children in this country as well as in several journeys to Europe and the Orient. The last as a delegate to the international conference of charities at the Paris exposition of 1900.

THIRD WARDER IS NOW ON RECORD

Agrees with the "Dog Owner" on the Dog License Question.

To the Editor.
From time to time I have seen articles in the Gazette signed Dog Owner. The general sentiment expressed by the writer is that dogs should be taxed. Personally I did not interest me. I have no dog and do not usually notice them in passing. However, an experience I recently had has made me a firm convert to the Dog Owner's theory and I would now like to add my voice to the imposing of such a tax.

It was only by a narrow margin that I am not a victim of a serious bite and had the snappy canine last attacked me not been frightened away I should have been severely injured. Now I am ready to urge the dog tax. Friends of mine, who own good dogs, tell me that a full blooded dog is very seldom ugly. That the finer the dog is bred the more gentle it is and easy to handle. With this in mind I counted the dogs in the neighborhood of the Grand hotel last evening and watched points to see if any were full blooded animals.

The Myers house corner had by far the best of it. It would seem as if every dog in town was concentrated at this corner—bulldogs, black dogs, collies and spaniels. I noticed that the spaniels showed the best marks of breeding and that they did not chase after horses and snap at passersby. One little black dog, however, was very ill-dressed in his work and not another dog or horse going at a fair rate escaped his notice and his yelping bark. I even saw him attack an inoffensive little puppy that was following a lady and roll the poor little thing in to the street, beneath horses' feet and in the way of pedestrians. He also snapped at me as I tried to drive him off his victim. Such a dog is dangerous. With a license imposed it is probable that an animal like this would not be allowed to live as his value could surely not be the dollar which such a fine would impose on his life. In this same line of thought I would like to call attention to the following law passed by the last legislature which may have escaped the eyes of many. It may be of value to persons who live in neighborhoods where ugly dogs are found.

Chapter 328
An act to amend section 1619 of the statutes of 1898, authorizing the killing of dogs under certain circumstances.

The people of the State of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section 1619 of the statutes of 1898 is hereby amended to read as follows: Section 1619. Any person may kill any dog, that he knows is affected with the disease known as hydrophobia, or that may suddenly assault him while he is peacefully walking or riding, and while being out of the enclosure or immediate care of its owner or keeper, and may kill any dog before its return to the enclosure or immediate care of its owner or keeper, which shall be found killing, wounding or worrying any horses, cattle, sheep, lambs, or other domestic animals.

Section 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Approved May 20, 1903.

"THIRD WARDER."

DOINGS AT THE RAILWAY CENTER

Persons's of Employees in the Local Yards and Along the Line.

Large quantities of beer are being shipped from this city to Beloit for celebrating the glorious fourth. From the amount already sent out, it looks as though Ringlings' elephants might be going to have a hand in the festivities—so the freight people say.

This is the quiet season down at the freight yards. Harvesting machinery and early summer supplies have mostly gone through and business will be rather dull until harvest time and when fall merchandise is shipped.

A movement has been started to close the St. Paul and North-Western freight offices in this city at five o'clock instead of quitting at six in the afternoon as heretofore.

Seventy-five million dollars of the new stock of the Pennsylvania road has all been taken in by the stockholders, and 90 per cent. of it has been paid in full.

Stockholders of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie have voted for an addition of $2,000,000 to the capital stock, thus making the entire stock $10,000,000.

The La Salle street station in Chicago will be opened July 12 and will be used by the Rock Island, Lake Shore and Nickel Plate systems.

Thos. Howe, machinist at the St. Paul roundhouse, leaves today for a two weeks' visit to his home near Kansas City.

Engineer John Murphy has gone to Rockford to relieve one of the engineers stationed there.

Conductor James Niland of the North-Western road is off duty for a few days.

J. Horen, conductor on the St. Paul line, will take Mr. Niland's run on the Fond du Lac stock train.

Engineer Charles Ridell of the C. & N. W. line, reported for work this morning.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern has made a reduction in rates on merchandise.

FINE WEATHER FOR THE CORN

FARMERS OF COUNTY ARE HAPPY OVER CONDITIONS.

WEEDS HAVE GOOD GROWTH

June Frosts Affected Rye, in Sections—Hay Cutting in Progress During Warm Days.

This is corn weather—good genuine corn growing weather and from all parts of the county comes word that crops never looked better and everything is coming along in the best possible shape. Wheat crops promise well, hay is being cut and the yield of barley and rye will point to banner harvests from one end of the county to the other. The warm days and nights have left their mark on the growing crops and even the garden vegetables all seem to have sprung up way beyond the expectations of even the farmers themselves.

Weeds Kept Down
It has been a hard time for farmers this spring thus far as the weeds have kept. If anything, ahead of the corn and small grains. Wet weather always insures a good crop of weeds even if the food stuffs are killed down and this spring has been no exception to the rule. Corn, however, looks very healthy throughout the county and reports from different portions show that the majority of the farmers have kept ahead of the weeds.

Rye Not So Good
While rye is well up and heading out well the June frosts did not do it any too much amount of good. Winter wheat has rapidly headed out and is about ready to cut next week. It is thought that some farmers, at least, will have fields that are ready for the mower by that time and they expect that the yield will be large. The straw will be good at any rate if the present indications count for anything.

Spring Cereals
Generally speaking the spring plantings are doing very well. Wheat, oats and barley planted this spring all point to a good crop. They need rain during the next four weeks at suitable times but could stand a drought of a week without showing any great depreciation of the final yield. Rock county has been fortunate in this respect and is better off than either Dane or the Wisconsin valley counties if reports are true.

WAS JERKED FROM TOP OF A BOX CAR

Milwaukee Road Switchman Hangs Feet Over Side of Car and Meets with Obstruction.

While seated on the top of a box car, dangling his legs over the side, Willis W. Taylor, a Milwaukee road switchman, was last night jerked from his seat to the ground and badly bruised.

Another car on an adjoining siding was so close that there was not space for his legs to pass, and he was pulled down. His legs were badly skinned in the operation, and it was a narrow escape from more serious injuries. He will probably be confined for a week.

GAS EXHAUSTER FOR GAS PLANT

New Machine To Be Installed—General Factory Notes—Furniture Factories Quiet.

It is expected that the new addition to the Rock River Cotton company will be ready for occupancy in about a month.

A number of the employees of the Marzluft Shoe factory are taking a vacation this week.

Trade in the furniture manufacturing business is rather slow just now. It is usually quiet at this season but the summer of 1903 has so far proven more than ordinarily slack.

The Badger State Machine company will soon install a large size key seater machine. They have recently shipped one of their large size punch and shear machines to the Capital City, also several smaller machines to Madison and Beloit.

A second gas exhauster is soon to be installed in the engine room at the gas company's plant. It is similar to the machine now in use and will be used to relieve it. The purpose of the gas exhauster is to facilitate managing the gas as it comes from the retorts to be run through the purifiers and from thence to the storage tanks. The use of the exhauster lessens the pressure in the gas making machinery.

The North-Western road has cut thirty minutes from the time of its Chicago fast mail. The train leaves St. Paul at 6:35 p. m. and arrives at Chicago at 7 o'clock the next morning.

BIG CONTRACT IN EXPORT SHELLS

R. F. Finley Is To Ship Five Hundred Tons for Foreign Button Manufacture.

During the eight years that R. F. Finley of this city has been handling clam shells for button making, he has never had so large a contract on his hands as that which he is now filling, and expects to complete within the next four months. It calls for five hundred tons—twenty-five carloads—of shells to be delivered at Newport News, Virginia, for foreign shipment.

These shells are secured from three sources, the Rock, Sugar, and Pecatonica rivers. The largest shipments are made from Rockton, as that is nearest the most fruitful beds, but a car is now being loaded in this city, to be shipped next week. The shells are of a narrower and longer shape, than those found in the Mississippi, and Mr. Finley regards them of a better quality. The Sugar river shells being superior to those of Rock and Pecatonica river. They are, however, more scarce, and have been nearly cleaned out during the eight years Mr. Finley has been handling shells.

Down in Monterey, below the lower cotton mills, a force of about twenty men is busy in raking out the shells, and scalding them, preparatory to shipping them where they will be used in the German pearl button factories. On the Pecatonica there are about thirty-six pearl fishers while the Sugar river resources suffice only to busy about half a dozen.

Of the three sources of supply, Mr. Finley regards the Rock river as least developed, and he regrets that there are so few men engaged in clam shell fishing.

SURPRISE ACCOUNT NEATLY SQUARED

Alderman Schmidley Is the Victim of His Wife and a Host of Friends Last Night.

Revenge was the prime motive which carried a surprise party last evening through to a successful ending. Some months ago E. J. Schmidley, the Fifth ward alderman, sprung a surprise upon his wife, which was complete and overwhelming. Last evening she balanced the account.

About seventy-five guests came to the aid of Mrs. Schmidley, and the alderman was taken by storm. Progressive clinch was the game of the evening. E. B. Connors and Mrs. Lee Wilcox carrying off the high prizes, and Dennis Morrissey and Mrs. John Timmons the low. A three-course luncheon followed the games.

TWO PERSONS ARE SLIGHTLY WOUNDED

Runaways Yesterday Afternoon Claim Two Victims—Man Knocked Unconscious—Woman Bruised.

It was necessary to turn the garden hose upon a South River street junk dealer late yesterday afternoon before he regained consciousness after figuring in a lively runaway. He was riding in a light lumber wagon when his horse bolted, coming into contact near Floyd Murdoch's North Franklin street residence with a buggy. The junk dealer was thrown to the ground, being rendered unconscious by the shock. His head was slightly cut in several places. Another runaway occurred yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock on the Milwaukee street bridge. A street car alarmed a team of horses which turned sharply to avoid the approaching car and snapped the carriage pole off short. Miss Emma Jennings, one of the occupants of the carriage, which contained half a dozen persons, was thrown to the ground and received a small scalp wound.

Notice of Examination
An examination of applicants for positions in the police and fire departments of the city of Janesville will be held at the offices of the police and fire commission, in the city hall, July 7th, A. D. 1903, beginning at 7:00 o'clock p. m. Application blanks may be obtained from the chief of the fire department or the city marshal.

T. S. NOLAN, President.
P. J. MOUAT, Secretary.

Women's Mission: The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the First M. E. church will meet Friday, July 3, in the parlors of the church, at 3 p. m. Leader for the afternoon, Miss Pantall. The subject is "A Magazine Quilt." You are asked to bring your May friend with you. Members are urged to be present and all friends will find a kindly feeling for them at this meeting.

Eau Claire Leader: This has been the coolest June in many years, and still there never was a June, in this state that gave so much promise. Wisconsin has already commenced cutting the finest hay crop on record, and all the cereals promise large returns. The June frost did little or no injury, except in a few low places, and the present outlook is most satisfactory.

Fireman Carl Miller is off duty having been taken sick yesterday.

Lee's High Tide at Gettysburg

A Fortieth Anniversary War Story
July 2-3, 1863

[Copyright, 1903, by G. L. Kilmer.]

A GOOD general should know when he is whipped. Lee was a good general. On the morning of July 2, 1863, he climbed into the belfry of the seminary on the outskirts of Gettysburg to study the enemy's position and plan the next move. Around him and away to the north was the battle field where the day before his troops under Hill and Ewell had driven the Federal divisions of Reynolds and Howard from ridge to ridge and from knoll to knoll—a fierce struggle, with glory in it for both sides, but victory for his own banners. The blue had been whipped, not the gray. But an army may be whipped and yet not conquered. From the belfry Lee saw Cemetery hill looming in front of him, packed with Federal troops and bristling with Federal cannon. To his mind the enemy had been driven to that height as a refuge from pursuing foes. That was true. The Federals had mounted the nearest rock at hand in order to escape the rising flood, because they had no boats. Let the boats come and they would hasten aboard for fear the waters might rise and engulf the rock and them with it. Lee determined to keep the boats away and cause the waters to mount higher.

This description is of course figurative. The threatening waves were Lee's armed battalions and the boats open roads for re-enforcements and supplies or safe retreat. Cemetery hill forms part of a long ridge shaped like a letter J. The hill is at the curve and is overtopped by Culp's hill, the point of the curve, and that again by Little Round Top, the head of the long staff. Ewell's corps had fought its way to the base of Culp's hill on July 1, and Hill's corps to the base of Cemetery hill. Longstreet came to the front during the night with two divisions of his corps that had missed the battle of the first day. It looked easy for Lee to destroy the Federals upon Cemetery hill by rushing his battalions to the crests of Culp's hill and Little Round Top and from there hurl death upon all the ridge between.

The Federals had planted a weak line upon Culp's hill, but had overlooked Little Round Top as an element of danger. Lee gave to Longstreet the task of seizing Round Top and to Ewell that of fighting his way to the crest of Culp's hill, while Hill's corps stood facing Cemetery hill ready for the final spring. This story has been thrashed over in print countless times since 1863, but there are countless readers on this fortieth anniversary of the great battle who still wonder why Lee fought at all on July 2 and 3, when military writers make it clear that he was whipped before he fired a shot.

The inmost beginner in war quickly learns that the fighter on the highest ground has the advantage, the same as the duelist who has his back to the sun. The soldiers below must waste breath and energy in climbing to get at the foe. Longstreet stealthily deployed his troops parallel with the ridge lying between Cemetery hill and Round Top until Lee's line of battle extended from the foot of Culp's hill almost to the base of Round Top on its south and west faces.

While Longstreet marched on his long detour the Federal corps of Sickles projected itself like a blunt wedge into the plain west and northwest of Round Top. It got in Longstreet's way. Longstreet wanted to keep his troops together and mass them for the grand rush on Round Top. He fell upon Sickles, and Sickles stood his ground for hours until the results of the sudden battle had changed the whole face of things, as Lee saw it that morning from the belfry.

The opening gun of Longstreet was a signal for Ewell to get to work at the other end of the field. His troops dashed half way up the slope of Cemetery hill on the north face, and while part of the Federal occupants of Culp's hill left their places to help Sickles out of his plight, also to help defend Cemetery hill, one of his divisions broke through the line and planted its flags there. The tide was rising. Only a single road led from the heights by which the Federals could escape if defeated in their attempt to defend them. Should Ewell succeed in capturing a few cannon on Culp's hill and turn them against their former owners he could rake that road with shells on one side, and Longstreet, if he carried his guns up Round Top, could rake it on the other.

Meanwhile Federal troops began to move southward along the connecting ridge to help Sickles in his fight and save Round Top from Longstreet's grasp. Lee must help his old war horse in that uphill fight. He threw out a division from Hill's old corps to dash for the center of the long ridge and cut the Federal army in two, leaving Sickles in a hopeless tangle and Round Top at the mercy of Longstreet. A charge of a single regiment of bluecoats, the First Minnesota, numbering but 252 men, was made down the slope, striking the center of the charging division. The Minnesotans were annihilated, but they held up the Confederate charge until their own reserves closed in behind them, and the center of the ridge was saved. And now for Round Top. Sickles' line was smashed. He had kept Longstreet from Round Top for over two hours. There was one man—just one in the army of the Potomac—looking out for Round Top. That man was a host in himself—General G. K. Warren, the engineer of the Federal army. Warren had climbed the mountain peak just to see how much there was of Longstreet, what he had back of him and what he was trying to do in his sudden attack on Sickles. From the hill he looked over the battle field at its base and saw Confederate troops marching along the edge of the field, ignoring the fighting all around them and heading for Round Top. He knew then what Lee had divined hours before—that the masters of Round Top were to be the masters of Gettysburg.

Hurrying down the mountain, without waiting for orders from his chief Warren halted a battery which he met galloping to the front to aid Sickles in a fight already lost. Pointing out the hill to the captain of the battery, he ordered him to drag his guns up there and open fire on Longstreet's marching troops. Just then General Wood came riding up in the wake of the battery at the head of his brigade, which was going double quick into the whirlpool of Sickles' hopeless fight. Warren directed him to march his men to the summit and defend the guns. The battery reached the summit of Round Top just as Longstreet's skirmishers struck the last stretch of the climb on the other side.

The leader of the battery, Captain Hazlett, was shot down the moment he showed himself on the rocky crest. Wood followed him up the hill and also followed him to death. Longstreet's men were swarming halfway up the hill, but though the Confederate tide was rising the Federals were still on top. Hazlett's guns and Wood's rifles poured shells and bullets down upon the Confederates below, and the hill was saved. During the night the Federal troops who had deserted Culp's hill to its fate and hurried to Sickles' aid returned and next morning drove Ewell's men from the heights. So on the morning of the third day Lee saw his foe still unconquered in spite of a second whipping in battle.

Some reviewers of the generalship at Gettysburg insist that Lee was really whipped when daylight of July 2 revealed to him the Federal line established on the crests of Cemetery ridge and Culp's hill, and nearly all of them agree that he was certainly whipped when Warren seized upon Little Round Top. But Lee thought otherwise. While giving directions to his generals on the morning of July 3 to hurl a column of 15,000 men against the Federal center under Hancock he found them lacking in enthusiasm, doubting the wisdom of further sacrifice. Shaking his list at Hancock's bivouacs along the crest, he exclaimed, "They are there, and we must get them!"

Perhaps he had a fighting chance. There was only one move left for the Federal commander if Lee kept up his aggressive "fight—namely, retreat" by the single road passing along the east slope behind Hancock's line. If Pickett's fresh column could storm those heights and turn their guns upon that road, a feat like Marshal Soult's assault on the heights of Austerlitz, which gave Napoleon his dazzling victory, Meade's army would be cut in two.

And Pickett almost succeeded. His Virginians and the Tennesseans who marched with him almost gained the crest, gallantly closing the gaps made in their ranks by Hancock's shells. A thousand fell where Kemper led. A thousand died where Garnett bled. In blinding flame and stinging smoke, a remnant through the batteries broke and crossed the works with Armistead.

But they got no farther. That was high tide at Gettysburg. At last Lee knew he was whipped, and he said to the heroes who excused themselves for failure, "It was all my fault."

THE CITY OF CAIRO

SIGHTS STRANGE TO EYES OF WESTERN TRAVELERS.

Life There Always a Holiday, and the Mecca of the Pleasure Seeker—Popular Hotel Frequented by the Most Aristocratic of the Tourists.

(Special Correspondence.)

Although it is only a four hours' ride from Alexandria to the Egyptian capital by the Cairo express, and the route lies through the most attractive and fertile part of the Nile delta, a very large number of travelers prefer to go by sea to Port Said, and thence down the Suez canal to Ismailiya, taking train at that point for Cairo. This course has much to recommend it, as the sightseer thereby visits Port Said, sees the canal, learns what a desert is like in the ride from Ismailiya to Iz-Zaazli, and sees a great deal of the delta country from there on to his destination.

Never was a town laid out in so precise a pattern as Ismailiya, the little half-way stopping place on the Suez canal. A broad road, lined with trees that look as though they had come out of a child's Noah's ark and then grown up a little, leads up from the landing place on the lake, across the fresh water canal to the Qal Mehemet Ali, a broad avenue, bordered on one side by the canal and on the other by the houses of the principal inhabitants.

Around Ismailiya lies the white desert, reclaimed only in this small spot by the ingenuity of man. And when one sees the wonderful luxuriance of the floral and vegetable growth wherever a regular supply of water has been distributed in the desert, it seems an unfortunate thing that all the vast wastes of Africa should not be made to blossom; all their astonishing fertility now lost and hidden by some strange trick of nature.

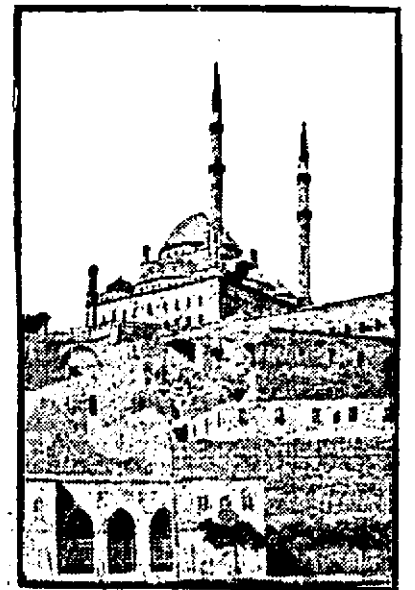

Cairo is not a holy city, but life there is a holiday and it is the Mecca of the pleasure seeker. Every year the number of fashionable and wealthy people from all over the world who gravitate to the Egyptian capital increases. For Cairo is Trouville, Saratoga, Monte Carlo and the Riviera rolled into one, with no end of special attractions of its own in which the seductions of the East reaches its greatest subtlety.

Officially, the khedive of Egypt and the British government administer the country, but in the city of Cairo King Carnival holds open court the year round, and there is none, excepting a few missionaries, to dispute his sway. During the six months of the Egyptian winter thousands upon thousands of European and Anglo-Saxon visitors throng the hotels and pensions with which the city is now crowded; many of them, indeed, in search of the health which the bland and even climate promises, very much the greater part of them on pleasure bent, and, as our Youngest put it, "at the end of the season so badly bent that they are almost broke."

Cairo is a city of so many and such diverse attractions, architectural, historical and social, that the limits of this article prevent any more than a cursory glance at the chief features of interest to strangers.

Most of the important hotels and the principal public buildings face the gardens or are near at hand. The New hotel is on the west side, the Hotel d'Orient on the northeast; Shepheard's, with its splendid verandas and fine cafe, the Continental—the Waldorf-Astoria of Cairo—and the Angleterre, are all within sight or easy reaching distance.

From the encircling streets radiate to every part of Cairo well cared for avenues, those in the adjacent Ismailiya quarter being especially fine, broad, with the footpath bordered by shade trees. In this quarter are many private residences of considerable pretension, with charming gardens filled with a profusion of tropical flowers. About a half-mile south of the Esbekiya is Abdin square, in front of the khedive's palace, where military reviews sometimes take place.

In all the quarters of the interior of the city the streets are very narrow, the houses appearing to fall toward each other by reason of the strange mode of building each story overhanging the lower story a few feet, until, where there are three or four floors, the topmost balconies and windows are separated by only a few feet. The object of this method of construction seems to be that of coolness, and in many of the old parts of the town the sun can hardly penetrate the dark narrowness of the streets, except when directly overhead.

Because we had attended to it two months in advance of our arrival in Cairo, there were rooms waiting for us at Shepheard's. This famous old hostelry is still, in all essential respects, the most comfortable and attractive hotel in the city, in spite of the fact that there are numerous other hotels of great size and modern appointments that are even superior in some points of elegance to Shepheard's, as it will always be called in spite of the fact that it is no longer Shepheard's, and another name is on the stationery in the writing room and in the bottom of the soup plates.

Egyptian Cafe.

friendly, and in the big white room, with its old-fashioned panels and stiff groups of palms hiding in the corners, one sees the greatest medley of well-known people, with and without titles, famous for many things, from politics to poetry, brains to mere beauty.

Past the hotel steps flows the multi-colored life of the city, and to the terrace come the vendors of curiosities, conjurers, snake charmers and Arab musicians, with their old instruments and barbaric songs, most of them, as far as the words are concerned, not fit to hear, if they could be understood. One might sit still upon the veranda, and in the course of a week everything human in Cairo will have passed before his eyes.

But it takes weeks for the bewildered of Cairo's many-sided life to settle into concrete impressions, to precipitate into experiences and memories, but ever afterward he who has known Cairo—its good and bad, its beauty and its hideousness, its splendor and its squalor, its majestic ruins and its Arab shacks—loves it for what it is, and wistfully remembers its enchanted days and its Arabian nights.

A FEARFUL BEAST TO MEET.

Man-Eating Stallion That Was Truly a Devil Incarnate.

A fearful beast is a bad horse. One really has more chance against a tiger. Geronimo stood 17 hands high and weighed over 1,600 pounds. When he reared on his hind legs and came for you screaming, his teeth snapping like bear-traps, his black mane flying, a man seemed a puny antagonist indeed. One blow from his front hoofs and your troubles were over. Once down, says Wallace Phillips in McClure's Magazine, he'd trample, bite and kick you until your own mother would hesitate to claim the pile of rags and jelly he left. He had served two men so already; nothing but his matchless beauty saved his life.

Nowhere could one find a better example of hell-beautiful than when he tore around his corral in a tantrum, as lithe and graceful as a black panther. His mane stood on end; his eyes and nostrils were of a color; the muscles looked to be bursting through the silken gloom of his coat. His swiftness was something incredible. He caught and horribly killed Jim Baxter's hound before it could get out of the corral—and a bear hound is a pretty agile animal.

We fed and watered Geronimo with a pitchfork, and in terror then, for his slowness and cutting were on a par with his other pleasant peculiarities. One of the poor devils he killed entered the stable all unsuspecting. Geronimo had broken his chains and stood close against the wall of his stall in the darkness, waiting. The man came within reach. Suddenly a black mass of flesh flashed in the air above him, coming down with all four hoofs.

NO QUARTER FOR THE OFFENDERS

President Roosevelt's letter to Attorney General Knox and the action, which the latter has taken upon it, show that no quarter will be given to the offenders in the postal irregularities. "There can be no greater offense against the government than a breach of trust on the part of a public official or the dishonest management of his office, and, of course every effort must be exerted to bring such offenders to punishment by the utmost rigors of the law." The President suggested that the Attorney General appoint some special assistants to aid in meeting out justice to the wrongdoers, and that action has been promptly taken.

The special counsel who have been selected—Charles G. Bonaparte, of Baltimore, and Holmes Conrad, a former solicitor general—are men, who are eminent in their calling, and may be relied on to render effective service to the government in this exigency. Mr. Bonaparte has made a high reputation through his ability as a lawyer, his public spirit, and his civic courage. Mr. Conrad is also well remembered for his legal skill. With the incentive which has been furnished them by the president's precept and example, these gentlemen as well as their official associates of the administrations own corps of lawyers will do the work which will win the plaudits of the country.

President Roosevelt's action will please his fellow citizens of all partisan faiths and will be especially agreeable to the republicans. It was the hope of some of the Democratic politicians that their party would make a good deal of capital out of the postal scandals, but they never had the faintest ground for the notion. The Republican party has always been prompt to reveal and to punish any wrongdoing in the government while it is in control. President Roosevelt would naturally be especially zealous in prosecuting a work of this sort. Of course, he has a direct and personal reason for zeal in the present case, as an important canvass is near at hand, and his political opponents are unscrupulous and desperate. But his opponents will make nothing out of the scandals. The offenders will be so fearfully exposed and so rigorously punished that all the political advantage which can possibly come from the affair, if any does come, will be gained by the republican party.

GROWING POWER

The growth in the consuming power of the United States in this period of business activity is illustrated by the figures in the Treasury Bureau of Statistics showing the importations and exportations by great groups during the eleven months, ending with May, 1903. These figures show that while the exportation of manufactures has increased only two million dollars as compared with the corresponding months of last year, the importation of manufactured materials has increased 66 million dollars as compared with the same months of 1902, and 131 millions as compared with the corresponding months of 1901. As it can scarcely be presumed that the manufacturers of the country are importing in excess of their present or immediately prospective requirements, it would seem that the increase in manufactures which this growing importation of materials indicates is being consumed at home, since exportations of manufactures for the year, show no material increase.

A rapid increase in the importation of manufacturers materials has been the striking characteristic of the fiscal year about to end. For the 11 months the total value of manufacturers' materials imported amounted to $451,051,163, against $354,775,764 for the same months of last year. $319,524,957 for the corresponding months of 1901, and $333,455,072 for the same months of 1900. Prior to 1900 the imports of manufacturers' materials had never touched the 300 million dollar line, except in 1893, when they were $300,461,795. Comparing 1903 with 1890, the manufacturers' materials imported have nearly doubled in value, those of the eleven months of 1890 being $242,437,981. Comparing conditions in 1903 with 1890, the year of the largest exportation of manufacturers' materials may be said that the importation of manufacturers' materials has increased 8 million dollars and exportation of manufactures has decreased 1 million dollars during the eleven months period under consideration.

WORLD'S NATIONS.

The nations of the world are, after all, but a group of families neighboring one another. The rules which govern the intercourse of society may just as well, then, be considered as applying to the intercourse of governments. The amount of courtesy to be extended to a man by his neighbors, in respectable circles, is a matter everywhere recognized as depending upon his reputation for truthfulness and the manner in which he conducts his domestic affairs. If he is given to lying and is in the habit of whipping his wife on the front porch, or of setting the dog on his children, he isn't usually regarded as meriting the consideration due to a gentleman. Nor can he claim immunity, in such case, from neighborly interference with his household management. Just such a case is that of Russia among nations. Her diplomacy is founded upon lies, such as those with which she has attempted to bamboozle our state department in reference to the evacuation of Manchuria. Her treatment of the Jews is fairly comparable to acts of domestic discipline such as those just mentioned. And President Roosevelt is evidently inclined to make her understand—by insisting in forwarding the petition of the Jews to the czar, in the form of diplomatic remonstrances to the "noblesse oblige" of knighthood compels a measure of disregard for Russia's claims to the immunities belonging to truth-tellers and to well regulated households—that is the neighbors really do have something to say as to the manner in which a despot shall treat his family.

WHY INVITE TROUBLE?

Tinker with the Tariff; well, why should we? Surely the marts of trade are open to us. Our export reports show that. Constantly increasing at the same time, notwithstanding all the dire predictions of the Free Trade prophets of disaster.

The mills are in operation; the smoke is curling over and above the factory chimneys. Except where there are strikes for advances of wages the work of the day goes steadily on. There is plenty of demand for coal, no matter what the coal barons say. Travel on the railroads is simply stupendous. The freight traffic no less so.

If we are to take people who pretend to know at their own word the transportation companies have not enough cars to supply their patrons' demand. And as all this means activity in the business world steady wages for the laboring man, sure payments of rents, and grocers' bills, and provision for all the necessities of life, we ask again, why tinker with the tariff?

And, to use an old form of expression, we pause for a reply.

GROSS IGNORANCE.

Gross ignorance of American affairs in the unofficial circles of Great Britain has been so commonly manifested that it has almost ceased to be amusing; but better things might be expected of such prominent men and "globe-trotters" as Joseph Chamberlain and Sir Charles Dilke. Yet Chamberlain declared in parliament a few days ago that the registration fee on grain and flour, reimposed in Great Britain last year, was paid by the American railways, not by the British consumer; the railways being obliged to transport these products to the seaboard at lower rates. In fact, as Harper's Weekly points out, the rates were twice advanced by the railways after the action of the British government. Sir Charles Dilke made the still more erroneous statement in parliament, June 10, that the exports of Great Britain were equal to the combined exports of the United States, Germany and France.

GOLF CLUB TO BE BUSY THE FOURTH

MANY EVENTS ARE PLANNED FOR THAT DAY.

TOURNAMENT IN AFTERNOON

Putting Contests and Croquet Games for the Less Active Members.

While Janesville as a city will take no official recognition of the great and glorious Fourth there will be many parties and picnics at adjoining resorts and the St. Louis Golf club will be the scene of several exciting contests if the plans at present projected are carried through. The wide sweep of grounds with the rolling hills will insure a fine breeze and while the sun will doubtless be hot the clubhouse veranda is always cool and will be a much sought for place. The official day will begin in the afternoon.

Many for Dinner
Steward Moulton says that thus far he has orders for about one hundred dinners and that from present indications the number will be more than doubled before the time comes. He is making arrangements to accommodate all who telephone their orders out for meals at the hour they set. This large order for dinner is perhaps due partially to the fact that many of the younger members of the club are talking of a baseball game in the morning. It has been thought that two teams, married men and bachelors, could be easily chosen and an exciting contest arranged for. Then, too, many families will go to the grounds early in the morning and spend the day there. The croquet set will be in constant use and an effort will be made to have the tennis courts ready although this is doubtful. In making the excavations for the courts they were figured too closely and hence are too small for use at present. This, however, will soon be remedied.

Afternoon
At two o'clock there will be a sweepstakes handicap tournament. It is open to all the members of the club and all entries will be handicapped. This will draw many to the grounds, either to watch or to play themselves. The course is in excellent condition and will be all mowed over before the day so as to be in the finest kind of shape.

Putting Contests
There will also be putting and approaching contests which members will be invited to enter and there is some talk among croquet enthusiasts of a tournament in that game. For a person sitting on the porch there will be plenty of animation to look upon with links in full swing, the putting clock in front and the croquet games just beyond.

Evening Plans
After supper there is a move on foot to have an informal hop. At any rate the big hall will be cleared as soon as supper is over and dancers can have their swing if they wish. Fireworks may close up the day's pleasure. While this is not a club feature it is understood that several members will club together to purchase some and they will be set off where all can see them.

HOPE TO DEFEAT SCHLITZ ACTION

Saloon Men Organize to Fight Power of Milwaukee Brewing Company in This City.

Organized opposition to the aggressive steps said to have been recently taken by the Schlitz Brewing company is the avowed purpose of a protective organization which has been formed by the saloon keepers of the city. There is a possibility that the scope of the organization may be extended later to embrace other matters of common importance.

The subject of immediate contention was stated by one saloon keeper as follows:

"Sales of Schlitz beer have fallen off because the drinking public here want home made beer. To force dealers to buy his company's goods, whether their patrons wanted them or not, Martin Riley, recently agent of the Schlitz company in this city, secured control of the rental of several saloons and gave the proprietors option between handling Schlitz brands or paying an exorbitant rent. Sheridan and Byrne, Tom Siegel, and the Ottomans had it put to them this way. The rest of us decided not to stand for it, and we organized to help out the men who are getting the small end of the deal."

"We don't pay any attention to that at all," said Agent Zimmerman of the Schlitz company this morning. "We don't mind it at all."

The next meeting of the protective organization will be held July 13, at which plans for action will be formulated.

St. Peter's Eng. Luth. Church
There will be services in Caledonian rooms as follows: Sunday school, 9:30 a. m.; morning service, 10:30 a. m.; evening service, 7:30 p. m. One of the pastors of Chicago Seminary will preach. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

No Kicks to Board: For the first time since the board of review began its sessions at the city hall there were today no complaining taxpayers.

Young Men and Maidens.
Life would become intolerable if girls could not be on frank and uncoquettish terms with men of their own age, or some years their seniors. The idea that because two young people may have a great deal in common they must also be in love is happily dying out. No one is hurt, no one is compromised, when a friendship does not lead to marriage.—John Oliver Hobbes in Pall Mall Magazine.

JANESVILLE MAN MAKES BIG HAUL

Frank Gray, a Former Resident, Recently Caught a Big Fish in the Pacific.

The Long Beach Evening Tribune, of Long Beach California, prints the following account of a former Janesville man's luck with the rod. Frank Gray was the lucky fisherman.

Caught a Big Halibut
There was a big halibut in near the wharf this morning and came to the surface once after a bait that was being hauled in. This made every fisherman wild and the way they went after that fellow with choice bait was a caution. Finally a man named Gray felt a tug, and after a struggle succeeded in landing the prize. It was a beauty, and weighed 24 pounds.

PHONE REPORTS TO BEGIN SOON

FARMERS NEAR JANESVILLE WILL GET NEW SERVICE.

OVER ROCK COUNTY LINES

Within a Few Days a Daily Weather Forecast Will Be Sent to All 'Phone Subscribers.

Before the end of the month—"as soon as possible" is the statement of the secretary of the governmental weather forecasting department for this section of the state—all farmers having 'phones in the Rock County Farmers' Telephone company will daily receive the official forecast. At some time between ten-thirty, each morning every 'phone in the exchange will be connected, a given signal will be rung and central will read the weather prediction for the day.

Forecasts Over 'Phones
For several days W. M. Nelson of the weather bureau, stationed at Milwaukee, has been in correspondence with Richard Valentine, president of the Independent Rock county system. In his last letter he stated that this innovation in weather forecasting would be put into effect in Janesville as soon as official action could be taken on the matter, and yesterday the blanks were received on which the daily records are to be kept in the local office.

For Farmers' Benefit
Under this system the predictions for the coming twenty-four hours will early in the day be placed in the hands of the persons to whom they will be most valuable—the farmers. Subscribers in the city may learn the forecast by calling up central, the farm and city wires being connected with the same switch-board.

In case severe storms or frosts are expected at any time special warning will be sent out over the lines.

At Uncle Sam's Expense
The expense of sending these forecasts to the farmers will be borne by the government. In the local exchange records will be kept to show the time at which the forecast is received each day and at which it is transmitted to the subscribers. At the end of the month these records will be sent to the government authorities to enable them to get a line on the comparative efficiency of the telephone and telegraph in sending out the reports.

Oshkosh Northwestern: In spite of the fact that the price of pig iron has gone off about $3 a ton, the directors of the steel trust have decided to maintain their price of $28 a ton for steel rails for American delivery. And yet with the testimony of Mr. Carnegie that steel rails can be produced in this country for $13 a ton and pay an average wage of $4 a day in their manufacture, it gives insight into the so-called Iowa idea which contends that the tariff should be adjusted so it will protect the consumer as well as the manufacturer.

APPLICATIONS IN FOR THE LICENSES

Will Probably Be No Decrease in the Number of Sa'oons—Licenses Granted Monday.

Indications are that there will be no decrease in the number of sa'oons in this city next year. Up to this time forty dealers have applied for licenses for the coming year. The licenses will be granted by the common council at their session next Monday evening.

Almost without exception the license applications have been accompanied by the five hundred dollars license.

Aside from the new proprietors at the Otteman and the Bank, the applications have been principally from old dealers. It is said that one or two liquor handlers will not attempt to renew licenses, having been given to understand that they are not regarded as desirable holders of such privileges.

Six of the ten druggists have made applications for their licenses.

BARBERS MUST GET THE CARDS

CERTIFICATE TO SHOW LICENSE IS NEEDED.

NEW ACT IS NOW IN FORCE

M. H. Whittaker is Member of the State Board Which Draws $3 Daily and Expenses.

One dollar per is the tax assessment against every barber in Janesville who desires to continue in business. With the first of the month the new act to regulate the practice of barbering went into force, and today the appointments of the governor for members of the state examining board have been made public.

The name of Marlon H. Whittaker of this city, one of the most indefatigable workers for the passage of the bill, since the first time it was brought up, several legislatures ago, heads the examination board. His two associates are Henry Holm of Reedsburg and Axel Douhan of Superior.

Get $3 a Day
During the discharge of their duties these men will get three dollars a day and their expenses. They will organize immediately and soon after will announce the date for the first examination, four of which must be held each year.

None of the tonsorial artists now practicing will be forced to undergo an examination, although later on they may be obliged to pay a penalty if they fail to observe the regulations regarding the sanitary conditions of their shops. The only requirement now is that they file with the board a petition for a card authorizing them to continue in business. For the card a fee of one dollar must be paid.

Card For One Dollar
Any applicants for examination to practice barbering must pay a fee of one dollar and submit themselves at the next regular meeting of the board at which time he must prove his qualifications as a practicing barber.

The bill is intended, so its supporters declare, to elevate the standard of the barber shops of the state, and thereby to do away with all contagious diseases which result from unsanitary conditions.

Every barber is required not only to keep his shop clean, to understand the use of the scissors and razor and how to keep them in condition, but must have a practical knowledge of all the diseases of the skin and face.

Quality Counts.

It's not the price but the quality that most people are particular about. My goods are the right quality. The prices are right too but I don't put particular emphasis on them. This week I am offering a pretty strong inducement with MEXICAN PLANTATION COFFEE.

With 2 pounds—any price—I give a 10c can of Starch.

With 3 pounds I give a 25c can of Baking Powder.

This is mighty good Coffee, sells for 20c, 23c, 25c and 35c.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, July 2, 1863.—There has been severe fighting between Meade's and Lee's forces, between Gettysburg and Chambersburg. Meade was reported to have been present. Gen. Reynolds was mortally wounded. The battle was apparently in progress when last heard from.

Emancipation in Russia.—The state convention in Missouri has adopted an ordinance of emancipation and adjourned. Slavery ceases to exist in that state on the fourth of July, 1870.

For the benefit of our Polar readers, we will make a note of the fact that this is a very warm day. The mercury is plump up to 90 degrees in the shade.

The city of Syracuse is planning a capacious reservoir, at the cost of $50,000 to supply the people with wholesome water.

At the anniversary of Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Iowa, on Thursday last, a few persons, perhaps half a dozen in all went there with copperhead pins, which created great excitement. The exercises were temporarily suspended; the band commenced playing, and every copperhead badge was taken from its owner and he forced to burrah for the union.

Gettysburg, July 1.—There has been a heavy engagement since nine o'clock this morning, between the rebels under Longstreet and Hill and the 1st and 11th corps under Gen. Reynolds and Meade. The locality is beyond Gettysburg on the Chambersville Pike. Portions of the fight have been very severe and attended with heavy loss. Thus far the enemy has been successfully resisted by the two corps mentioned, and the 3rd and 12th corps are now coming up.

Harrisburg, July 1, Midnight.—The heavy firing heard in the direction of Carlisle has now ceased. It is believed that the rebels have made an attack on the forces belonging to this department, between Mechanicsburg and Carlisle. No doubt a general engagement is going on.

Washington, July 1.—Letters of today's date received from the army of the Potomac contain the following: Our last movements have been characterized by a marked willingness on the part of the soldiers to undergo any fatigue within the bounds of human endurance.

Weekly Crop Report.

The increased warmth and sunshine during the last few days has caused a decided improvement in the condition of the crops generally. The improvements have been most marked in those portions of the central and western counties which were favored with local showers during the early part of the week. Although there is sufficient moisture in the soil for present needs in some sections, and only a few correspondents report damage on account of drouth, the state as a whole is in need of rain, especially in the northern part, where the soil is becoming very dry.

Corn: The warm weather during the past few days has caused a general improvement in corn, but the crop as a whole is at present time in a decidedly unpromising condition, except in a few localities which escaped the frost and have been favored with opportune showers. The fields are clear of weeds and on up land the plants generally present a healthy appearance. With sufficient warmth and moisture during July, and August there is yet time to make a fair crop.

Winter Wheat and Rye: The effect of the frost especially in the Wisconsin valley, has proven to be very disastrous to rye. Nearly all reports from that section indicate that more or less damage occurred and in a few localities, the crop is practically a total loss. Elsewhere the crop is good and heading out well. Winter wheat has ripened rapidly during the past few days and will be ready to cut next week. The crop is satisfactory.

Oats, Barley, and Spring wheat: Generally speaking, grains are in a satisfactory condition, and while rain is needed to bring them to maturity, no damage from drouth is reported except in a few localities in the northern counties.

Potatoes: The warm weather during the latter part of the week improved the condition of potatoes materially, but rain is needed for rapid growth. Potatoes that were injured by the frosts have generally come forward and are now in a healthy condition. Potato bugs are numerous in some sections and doing considerable damage.

Tobacco: Transplanting is now about completed and the plants are doing well, especially during the past few days. Rain would be beneficial.

Hay: A large acreage of clover was cut during the week, and much secured in excellent condition. This crop is very heavy. Timothy is a heavy crop and cutting will begin next week.

Pastures are still good, although growth of grass is being checked by dry weather.

Minor Crops: Peas are in full bloom and promise a good crop. Sugar beets are reported in satisfactory condition. Gardens suffered severely on account of the frost and have not yet fully recovered.

Fruit: The strawberry crop is good, except where injured by frost. Cherries and plums promise a fair crop. Apples promise to be a good crop in most sections. Cranberries where not injured by frost are doing well.

Southern Section
Beloit, Rock county: Still too cold for corn which is backward, but in this locality was not much injured by the frost of the 12th; a warm rain is very much needed; a fine week for haying and a large acreage has been stored.—O. A. Powers.

Platteville, Grant county: Some corn growing nicely and some making no headway; small grain doing well, but needs rain; early sown oats starting to head.—H. F. Neely.

Westly, Vernon county: Dry weather nearly all week, favorable for drying of clover that has been cut; small grains look well; corn has made some gain.—Paul T. Paulson.

Alderly, Dodge county: Small grains looking well; corn about one week late; hay maturing slowly, being very green and heavy.—John Steele.

ALLEGED COLLUSION IN ARMY CONTRACT

CHARGES BY DEFEATED FIRM

Congressman Littauer, It is Claimed, Furnished Goods to Successful Bidder in Violation of Statute—Investigation Is Under Way.

Washington, July 2.—There will be a thorough investigation into the methods employed in securing contracts for army supplies. This investigation is the direct result of the publication of records of the contracts of Edmund R. Lyon with the quartermaster's department for gloves and gaiters.

These documents connect Representative Littauer of New York with the contracts, and the records of the war department are being overhauled to ascertain if the New York representative had any interest in them.

Firm Enters Protest.
The examination of the officials in progress fails to disclose anything involving Mr. Littauer. It was said that sometime ago the charge was made that Representative Littauer was interested in glove contracts and that a San Francisco firm which had bid on these supplies had protested and called the attention of the war department to a clause in the revised statutes prohibiting members of congress from receiving any benefits from contracts with the government.

Officials to Investigate.
Steps are now being taken to ascertain the truthfulness of this statement, and a search will be made of the files of the office of the quartermaster general to see if any written protest was received.

Littauer is a member of the firm of Littauer Bros., which manufactured gloves for Lyon, who sold them to the government. An official of the war department said that Representative Littauer had been a frequent visitor there, and on several occasions had discussed the glove question in a general way, but had never made reference to any particular contract.

Penalty Is Severe.
Secretary Root will take up the matter with Quartermaster General Humphrey. It is asserted at the department that there is no doubt that proceedings can be instituted under the law to recover the money paid to Lyon for the goods he supplied, and which it can be shown came from the firm of Littauer.

If the law officers of the government hold that Littauer is interested in this contract it will be the duty of the quartermaster general under the revised statutes to call upon Lyon and his sureties for repayment to the government of all the money for goods purchased under the Lyon contracts and which were supplied by Representative Littauer's firm.

Should the repayment be refused the matter would probably be referred to the attorney general to institute proceedings against Lyon's bondsmen, which in some of the contracts would include William Littauer. Any prosecution of Representative Littauer for violation of the statutes prohibiting members of congress from being interested in contracts with the government will depend upon the result of the investigation which it is proposed to make of all the contracts with Lyon.

POISONED BEER CAUSES DEATH

Woman's Former Boarder Is Accused of Killing Her.

Cincinnati, O., July 2.—Mrs. Lena Galley, according to the coroner's verdict, died from poisoning. She had just returned to her husband with their two children after a temporary absence. It is charged that a man, who had previously boarded with the Galleys, put poison in beer that he brought with him when calling on Mrs. Galley.

Hogs Eat Woman's Corpse.

Vinita, I. T., July 2.—Mrs. Cynthia Johnson, an aged widow of Kinnison, was killed in her yard while her son and daughter were away. When her daughter returned she found that the hogs had eaten the body until it was beyond recognition.

Is Dismissed.

Atlanta, Ga., July 2.—S. A. Hawk, warden of the federal prison in this city, has been relieved from duty on orders from the attorney general. Two of his subordinates retired with him. Mr. Hawk came from Columbus, O.

New York, July 2.—A machine by which one's handwriting may be transmitted by a telephone wire is now being exhibited at an office on Broadway.

Terms of Railroad Deal.

New York, July 2.—The terms on which the Hocking Valley Railway was taken over by half a dozen railroads have been announced. The negotiations extended over six months. A bare majority of the common stock was finally bid in and pooled and then divided among the roads.

MACHEN PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Former Postal Official Is Arraigned on Bribery Charges.

Washington, July 2.—August W. Machen, against whom three indictments have been found for accepting a bribe in connection with the contracts for letter box fasteners, was arraigned before Justice Pritchard in Criminal court No. 1. He pleaded not guilty and was given until July 20 to file a demurrer, should he wish to do so. The Groff brothers, who were indicted with Machen, appeared in court and pleaded not guilty. It was announced that Machen and the Groffs will be tried at the fall term of court, their cases being taken up in the regular order. The fall term begins in October.

Jailer Is Attacked.

Flemingsburg, Ky., July 2.—A mysterious assault was made on Jailer John G. Morris at the jail here. It is supposed to have been an attempt to release William Thacker, who has twice been convicted for the killing of John Jordan.

Cure for Rheumatism.

Richmond, Ind., July 2.—Edward Dalbey, a prominent citizen, has found a novel cure for paralytic rheumatism in one of his arms. On his daily walk from his home to his business he carries an eight-pound flat-iron.

Sues University.

Chicago, July 2.—The University of Chicago has been sued in the circuit court for $5,000 damages by Ella B. Martin as administratrix of the estate of George Jenkins, who was killed in November, 1901, by a falling wall.

Drama Censor for Manila.

Washington, July 2.—A censorship of the drama will probably be established in the Philippines to prevent plays which incite hatred of Americans and glorify resistance to the American government.

Bootblacks Form a Union.

New York, July 2.—The latest thing in unions is the "Bootblack Union." It is formed not to increase the price of the "shoe," but to fight the bootblack trust and the padrone system.

Danderine

GREW THIS HAIR.

Mrs. ANNE E. SHEEHAN, Weir City, Kansas.

You must remember that falling hair and baldness are signs of decay, or a diseased condition of the scalp, and you must not delay treatment. To do so simply means more loss of hair, and a greater impoverished scalp, and finally no hair. The wise thing to do is to correct it in the start. Danderine works wonders in all such cases. It will quickly regenerate the neglected scalp, and make your hair grow more beautiful than it ever was. NOW all druggists, hair salons.

25c, 50c, and $1.00 per bottle. KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., Chicago.

For Sale and Recommended by People's Drug Co., and King's Pharmacy.

ALLISON WRITES TARIFF PLANK

CUMMINS HEADS STATE TICKET

Governor Is Renominated by Acclamation After the "Shelter to Monopoly" Feature Is Eliminated From Platform—Still Stands by His Views.

Governor A. B. Cummins of Des Moines, Lieutenant Governor John Carroll of Stuart, Supreme Judge Charles A. Bishop of Des Moines, Railroad Commissioner David J. Palmer of Washington, State Superintendent F. J. Hughes of St. Joseph.

Des Moines, July 2.—Harmony prevailed in the Republican convention to all outward appearances. The platform declaration on the tariff was adopted as written by Senator Allison, after conferences with W. J. Blythe, Gov. Cummins, George Perkins and numerous other leaders inside and outside of Iowa. The "shelter to monopoly, plant," which has been the bone of contention for the last two years, is entirely eliminated. This is the plank which has been attacked by the "stand patters" and defended by the Cummins people. The result is regarded by the opponents of tariff revision, as related to the trust question, as a great victory.

Tariff and Trusts.

Tariff and trusts are treated in two separate planks and this substantially disposes of the proposition that the two are in any way related.

Absolute harmony really did not exist in the convention. The tariff plank was agreed to, but here the harmony stopped. Gov. Cummins and his friends demanded a majority of the committee on resolutions in order that they might say that the committee was controlled by them and the platform was their own handwork. Gov. Cummins represented to Senator Allison that he had come down from his position, but would like to come down before the convention, with the assistance of his friends and not his enemies.

Senator Allison was disposed to agree to this, but as soon as the agreement became known there was trouble, which resulted in open breaks.

Control of Committee.

When the committee on resolutions met it organized by electing Blythe chairman and J. H. Trewin secretary. The meeting was entirely harmonious, for the plank regarding the tariff had been agreed upon.

When Blythe appeared to make his report, the convention gasped for breath. It had been heralded abroad that the Cummins men would control the committee on resolutions, but there was the leader of the opposition standing before the convention and reading the resolutions, which showed nothing of the "shelter to monopoly" plank, the core of the "Iowa idea." He was greeted with great applause.

Cummins Speaks.

After the resolutions had been adopted Gov. Cummins was called for. He declared that he had not departed one iota from his stand on the tariff, and he expected to work for its adoption as a principle of national Republicanism. Cousins and Leary eulogized the Dingley law, and practically took issue with the governor. If it had not been called a harmony convention it would have been called a bitter fight over the "Iowa idea." Allison and Dolliver urged harmony in their speeches.

The significant feature of the convention is that the fight has now commenced for the control of the delegation to the next national Republican convention. Cummins has practically announced himself as a candidate to head the delegation to the next national convention and the fight will be a bitter one. At a meeting of the state committee R. H. Spence, an anti-Cummins man, was re-elected chairman. When it came to nomination all the candidates were renominated by acclamation with the exception of the state superintendent, for which office Mr. Higgs was nominated on the third ballot, his opponents being the present superintendent, R. C. Barrett of Osage and H. L. Adams of West Union.

Educator Is Exonerated.

BLUE BOOK IS A NOTABLE VOLUME

State Summary Contains Three Hundred Pages More Than Is Usual.

About 500 copies of the blue book are being sent out each day from the office of the commissioner of statistics in which it was compiled this year for the first time. Some 10,000 of the 40,000 to be printed have so far been sent out. The book this year is much larger than its predecessors, including 1,164 pages with the index, some 300 more than usual. The book has hitherto been compiled by the secretary of state, usually under a contract. Pages 112 to 329 are an entirely new feature, being census statistics on population, agriculture and manufactures. There are also full election statistics and receipts and expenses of departments since 1897. The book is a notable piece of work, prepared in the complete and accurate manner for which Commissioner Erickson is famous and was done without extra help by his department. Each legislator gets 250 copies to distribute.
